The organization ever since its inception has been very meticulous in articulating its development perspectives in a fair and feasible manner. In fact, the Structure and Management do manifest a small group of staff and service providers who are competent and committed enough to tackle a broad range of activities. Management of the organization is vibrant enough to handle situation as per situation & need of time. Obviously, persistent effort of organization to remain relevant and to accommodate changing dynamism has been a challenge.

In fact, the staff structure of the organization is too small – yet all of them are quite prospective in their attitude and committed in their bent to work upon for social cause. No doubt the sense of dedication & principle of commitment among staff and Board Members do have enabled organization to strive against all odds.
